

16. A large archway in the ruins of the city of Petra, Jordan. The archway is made of massive stone blocks and is a typical feature of the Nabatean architecture. The archway is surrounded by other ruins, including walls and columns, and is set in a desert landscape.